Insert missing semicolons between:

- Closely related independent clauses.
- Two independent clauses when the second begins with however, consequently, moreover, therefore, unfortunately, nevertheless, for example, or furthermore.

We thought the snow would stop by midnight however, it did not. It snowed enough to blanket every roof it snowed enough to cover all but the tallest of bushes. It slowed pedestrians it stopped traffic. Snow fell right on through the night moreover, it continued during the following morning. School was delayed then it was closed. Adults wrung their hands children screamed "Hooray!" For a while it looked as if school would be closed until spring unfortunately (from the students' point of view), that was not the case.
